Family guide: Website tips

Seattle Little Rangers · October 2026

Reading the website in Chinese or Spanish

The website is written in English, and Google can translate it:

1. Press the globe icon marked EN at the top right. On a phone, open the menu at the top right (three lines) first, then press English.
2. Choose 简体中文, 繁體中文 or Español.

Choosing a language

A few seconds later the whole website is in that language, and it stays that way as you move between pages. To go back, choose English in the same place.

Google does the translating, so now and then it is a little off, and button names may not match the ones in these guides, which give them in English. Occasionally Google's translation isn't available; the website then says so and stays in English. Try again a little later.

These guides are written in English and in Chinese. Every guide has a link at the top to the other language.

Telling us about a problem or an idea: the Feedback button

Every page has a Feedback button at the bottom right (on a phone, just a speech-bubble icon). If something on the website is wrong or unclear, or you have a suggestion, use it to tell us:

1. Press Feedback. The website takes a picture of what you are looking at, then opens the feedback window.
2. Write what went wrong, or your suggestion, in English or Chinese.
3. Drag on the screenshot with a finger (the mouse, on a computer) to draw a box:
   - Highlight: a yellow box, to show where the problem is;
   - Hide: a black box, to cover anything you'd rather others didn't see, such as a name or a phone number. It is blacked out before it is sent, so we can't see it either;
   - Undo: takes away the last box.

   To send no screenshot, uncheck "Include a screenshot of this page".
4. Leave your email address if you'd like a reply, and press Send.
